What: ELEANOR McEVOY

Spring 2019 sees chanteuse multi-instrumentalist and raconteur Eleanor McEvoy continuing her 'Gimme Some Wine Tour', taking in England, Ireland, Europe and beyond.

McEvoy is one of Ireland's most accomplished contemporary singer/songwriters, best known for composing the song Only A Woman's Heart, which she sang to provide the title track of the best-selling album in Irish history.

Dublin-born, McEvoy originally started out as a session musician, including four years with the Irish National Symphony Orchestra and a stint with the Mary Black Band. She then decided to develop her own career, and in 1992 had the title track on The Woman's Heart compilation album, and a U.S. record deal with Geffen Records.

She was soon touring the world and her debut album went on to sell 250,000 copies. In 1993, she was awarded Best New Artist, Best New Performer, and Best Songwriter by the Irish entertainment and music industries. In 1995 Eleanor, together with her band, performed for 80,000 people gathered in Dublin to see US President, Bill Clinton

More recently, her Thomas Moore Project album was nominated for best folk album in Ireland's RTÉ* broadcaster awards. The Project followed her association with the painter, the late Chris Gollon, who had previously created paintings for all of the tracks on her album, Naked Music, including the track Gimme Some Wine.

Spokesman Martin Snodin says: "McEvoy's shows are intimate occasions that always feel special. Alone on stage, there's an unmissable Irish lilt in her voice, and she keeps the entertainment level high with her stage banter and fantastic musicianship, as she switches between guitar, bass, violin and piano."
